Way Cleared In London For Japan Peace Treaty

London, June 6.

The Foreign Secretary, Mr Herbert Morrison, and President Truman's special representative, Mr John Foster Dulles, cleared the way for a Japanese peace treaty at n luncheon given today by the United States Ambassador. Mr Walter Gifford. The luncheon followed Mr Dulles' brief formal meeting with British officials at the Foreign Office at which, officials said, "most if not all" the essentials for a Japanese peace settlement were agreed upon.

TREATY ESSENTIAL

Mr Dulles and Mr Morrison were said to have followed the line that it was essential to get a Japanese peace treaty, as quickly as possibly because it would help to turn an ugly situation in the Far East to good. Mr Dulles explained the "collective security system" enfor the Pacific area, was hoped eventually to fit a rearmed Japan together with forces contributed by the Western Allied nations. VI has "reached the common man" by his ready willingness to share in his sufferings and anxieties, and no ruler has ever done more by example and words to raise and sustain the morale of his people. Moreover his influence extends far beyond the shores of Britain. What holds the Commonwealth together more than anything else is the fact that it has the same King. Take away the British monarchy and it is a political fact that by the Statute of Westminster there is really nothing left. What remains, of course, is solid enough: the links of language, and common political ideals which hold the English-speaking world together. Nevertheless, it is impossible to overstate the tremendous personal appeal which the King has for his peoples all over the world and which engenders in them responsive feelings of deep respect and affection. Colonial Development Compensation Plan Affected Rearming

London, June 6.

The annual report of the Colonial Secretary; Mr James Griffiths, for 1950-51 states that because of rearmament it now seems probable that the pace at which Colonial development programmes can be carried out will be affected by the rate at which capital goods such as steel for construction can be supplied as well as finance.

The report, published today as a Blue Book, makes it clear that the Government is determined to press ahead with its policy of Colonial development—and in 1950 a total of 22 new schemes were adopted, bringing the number to 50 involving a capital commitment of £31,000,000.

FIRM FAVOURITES FIRST AGAINST SOUTH AFRICA

Nottingham, June 8. England are firm favourites to win the first cricket Test, which begins on the Trent Bridge pitch — a "batsman's paradise" — tomorrow and is scheduled for five days.

Helped by a long spell of sunshine, the groundsman, Frank Dalling, who took over the job in May, has prepared a good wicket. It should be really fast and will last five days," he said.

South Africa's batting has not been very consistent — they have always had to fight back after a bad start — but they did quite well on the Trent Bridge ground against Nottinghamshire. In that match the pitch favoured fast bowlers, the South African Cuan McCarthy taking five wickets for 67 runs and Harold Butler, of Nottinghamshire, taking five wickets for 63 runs.

American Swimmers Expect To Take Most Of The Gold Medals At Helsinki

Just when it seemed that British Olympic 800 metres representative Harold Tarraway was about to stage a come-back after a run of injuries during the past two seasons, comes news that this may be his last summer in top-class competition.

"I have no Olympic aspirations" he told me. "Indeed, don't think I am ever likely to run much after this year, apar from club matches." Tarraway, who is 26, made a

KENT CRICKET IS NOT QUITE YET IN THE DOLDRUMS

Says ARCHIE QUICK

Kent cricket is in the doldrums. At least, the supporters of the county club are. I am not with them. I think there is a bright future for the wearers of the White Horse caps:

It was a remarkable fact that until I visited the historic Bat and Ball ground at Gravesend, Kent had not hud an opening century partnership since the season before last? But the redoubtable Arthur Fagg and skipper David Clark managed to get past the three figure mark against Leicestershire without loss, and I feel that they will do it again.

Low Scores By ENGLAND SHOULD HAVE AT Two Professionals LEAST ONE NON-PLAYING SELECTOR

Says W. J. EDRICH

England's Test Selectors today are all active playing members of County sides. Three of the four-Norman Yardley, Freddie Brown and Bob Wyatt-are captains. And I know many people who feel that the fourth-Les Ames-should be one, too. Looking back down the years, when far too many "pavilion pilots" steered the course of the England team, we have, indeed, come a long way.

But I am wondering whether the "progress," the surge towards the idea of finding the best practical men for the job, has not, perhaps, gone just a little too far. I have always respected the advice of my elders. I have found in cricket especially a background of very wise elderly statesmen whose opinions and comments I have always valued. .

That is why I feel that our Selectors, at the time of writing only four in number, might very usefully co-opt one other. Five is a very manageable committee. In this case the fifth should be one no longer playing regular cricket and therefore free to get around a little to watch the promising players here and there whose names are bound to come up for discussion.

give him the "once over" when them will be selected. But they as opening batsman, they play against him-and then have certainly served the right Yes, I have deliberately the youngster just doesn't happen apprenticeship, and have earned omlitted the new spate of 18 and to come up to the mark in that consideration. particular match-what then? Is The new school fastish to keep an eye on the progress the hid to be written off?

TOO WISE FOR THAT

Brown and company are too worldly wise for that; and I am sure they would seek other safe opinions. But wouldn't it be an advantage if they could seek the opinion of their fifth member who would be free to follow up the next match? I think it would. At the moment I notice that the West Country has no representation on the committee so why not the fifth member from that part of the world?

And that brings up another point. I do not suggest a West Countryman because I feel that the players from Gloucestershire i or Glamorgan or Somerset need

No, my idea of a West Country representative is not to plug anybody. I merely think there for the occasion was presented with a magnificent cross shot from the edge of the are a great many good cricket brains down there, and should all have the benefit.

For Roger Bannister

If Roger Bannister going to do that four-minute mile it may be out of England this month.

Better chances are not likely to come his way than at Bizlet Stadium, Oslo, on June 19-20, and later this month on the 500-metre track at Milan.

A mile will be his distance in Oslo and the promoters of the Italian meeting will be wise if they stage a mile handicap, because the advantages of running on a longer track with fewer and more gradual bends, are obvious.

In Norway, Bannister may have Audun Boysen to extend him. Boysen is the Norwegian who returned the fastest time for 800 metres in Europe last year, 1 min, 48.7sec .- and don't forget this Bizlet Stadium track is very fast. It is the one on which the European championships were held in 1946 when Wooderson won the 5000 metres in 14min. 8.6sec.

The climate may not suit Bannister so well in Italy but the Mllan track is good. It was there that the German Harbig set his world 800 metres record of 1min. 46.6sec. in 1939.

British Farmers' Costs Increased

Mr Williams, Minister of Agriculture, said at London conference that he hoped it would not be necessary to revert to milk rationing during the difficult period towards the autumn.

That hope was founded on reasonable summer and autumn weather.

Because of continued bad Feeding-stuffs.—Supplies weather milk production might imported feeding-stuffs are dear, prove to be 70 million gallons scarce and precarious. Nationalisation In Insurance: Messageries Maritimes Intricate Subject Of Subrogation

Recently the various committees of the International Marine Insurance Union have met in Copenhagen to prepare the agenda for the St. Moritz conference, which is to be held in September.

A new committee entitled "Freedom of Insurance Committee" has been appointed with a view to combating restrictive nationalistic practices by which certain nations seek to obtain a monopoly of business for their own markets.

The appointment of this committee coincides most happily with a report of the proceedings at a session at New York of the Transport and Communications Commission of the United Nations, in which discriminating practices in marine insurance were the subject of a resolution.

THE OIL BUG Nationalisation Murmur

Over Sumatra Fields

Jakarta, June 6. A low murmur about nationalisation of Indonesia's huge oil fields can be heard in parliamentary circles.

Teuku Hassan, former governor of North Sumatra and now chairman of the Indonesian parliament's economic section, is sponsor of new legislation—in blueprint stage—demanding that the big oil companies share a sub- Japan, 2 p.m., P.O.A.S.
